Write-up about the Event (Max. 150 Words):

Department of Food Science and Nutrition organized a Hackathon 2022 to M.Sc students. Students identified various problem statements being faced under different social relevant issues and agricultural activities such as Irrigation, water management, food waste management, health care, energy, cyber security, environment safety, and sustainable agriculture and food security problem statements.

Outcome of the Event: 20 problem statements along with one open innovation domain were kept open for students. In the first round of the hackathon, students submitted their idea prototypes in the form of presentations. This event provided an exposure to gain knowledge on practical aspects of agriculture and food science. The students were marked on their pitching, presentation, innovation and overall idea.
